Abstract:
Most of Indonesian hajj pilgrims are elderly due to approximately 23 years waiting period. This paper aims to elaborate specific treatment of elderly pilgrims according to the hadith. Some hadith imply indirect prohibition to perform hajj by themselves while others still motivate the hajj in a hard condition. Using the approach of mukhtalif ahâdis, this paper seeks to answer three questions. First, how did hadith say about specific treatment of elderly hajj pilgrims. Second, how to deal with two groups of hadith which slightly look different. Third, how is proper contextual interpretation on the hadith in Indonesian contemporary life. The data compilation is through literature reviews and interviews. Then, the two groups of hadith are compromised using a method called al-jam’u wa al-tawfiq. It turns out that the first hadith applies for those who can’t really perform the hajj while another is for those with physical problems but could still stand for hajj using some facilities and policies. Those all lead to an inevitable need for a special hajj manasik for elderly so they could perform the hajj with better preparation.

Introduction

As the last pillar of Islam, performing hajj is the most challenging one as it needs various ‘abilities’ ranging from financial, physical and social aspect even knowledge mastery. In Indonesia, the challenge is also about the quota and the long waiting period which can take place, at maximum, 30 years right after the registration.\(^1\) This makes very much sense to happen in the world’s largest Moslem country. Together with other relating factors, those play a big role in segmenting the hajj pilgrims. Most of them, about 60\% at 2018, come from elderly who typically suffer various types of health problem.\(^2\)

\(^1\)The most recent waiting period is 23 years counting from the registration date. Interview with Mr. Afandi, Former Chair of Haji Division, Pamekasan Branch of Ministry of Religious Affair, at his office, Jl. Brawijaya, Pamekasan, August 27, 2018.

In fact, the situation of hajj requires every pilgrim to maintain good health as it would determine on how they perform the series of worship. Meanwhile, the huge people from all over the world coming to the single place for the same purpose make the crowd unbearable. The heat climate of Mecca and its surrounding makes the condition even more challenging so not every pilgrim may do the same as they have different health condition. Therefore, specifically to the elderly or those who have serious physical problems, some facilities and system are well prepared to help them performing the hajj well.

Considering the healthy and physical problem, at very least, elderly have two main choices in performing the hajj, either by performing by themselves along with their physical limitation or by appointing someone else to do on behalf of him/her. So far, there is no rigid rule about this very specific thing and it refers to personal preference. Therefore, it is important to know how religious source, particularly hadith, speaks about this matter which is also a constant problem arising in every hajj session year by year. Hadith, in this extent, is the considerable source to note as it elaborates general thing into specifics and explore the living story of Prophet Muhammad lively. Moreover, previous researches on elderly pilgrims were more about medical, social or psychological views instead of religious approach.

Among others, there found, at minimum, two directly related hadith on elderly in hajj. First is about the permission to perform hajj on behalf of an elderly who is not physically eligible to perform the hajj. The second contains some alternatives for those who have physical difficulties in hajj to still perform it by themselves, including elderly, such as to ride any ‘vehicle’ like camel as the traditional characteristic of Arabic peninsula at that time.

12 (117), (2012), 7. In addition to those two, there also found the respiratory tract infections as the common illness of hajj pilgrims. See Abdulaziz H. Alzeer, “Respiratory Tract Infection during Hajj”, Annals of Thoracic Medicine, Vol. 4, No. 2 (Apr-Jun 2009), 50.
3There found some factors beyond the extreme circumstances of hajj session. They are physical exhaustion, exposure to foreign strains of organism and overcrowding (around 2 million pilgrims in the restricted area). A. Alzeer, “Tuberculosis is the Commonest Cause of Pneumonia Requiring Hospitalization During Hajj (Pilgrim to Makkh),” in Journal of Infection, Vol. 36, No. 3 (1998), 305.
The first group of hadith implies that the elderly is permitted not to perform hajj due to physical condition and for his/her own good. However, the second group indicates that it is still strongly urged to perform hajj by themselves considering some special ‘policies’ and ‘facilities’ available. Therefore, what this paper aims to do is to find out the proper contextual and critical interpretation on this problem based on the hadith as the relevant source using the theory of mukhtalif hadis. This is done through three questions to answer; First, how did hadith say about specific treatment of elderly hajj pilgrims? Second, how to deal with two groups of hadith which slightly look different? Third, how is the proper contextual interpretation of the hadith in Indonesian contemporary life?

Research Method

This is a qualitative research based on a mixed library and field data compilation technique. The primary library source consists of some main hadith compilation books, while the secondary contains books, journal articles, dissertation and website contents talking about the hajj specifically related to the elderly. The field data comes from interviews to three respondents which had played a roles as a member of hajj team, while one of which also served as the former chair of hajj division at the local branch of ministry of religious affair. The interviews were in semi structured one with the prepared questions arranged before.

Meanwhile, the analysis is based on the theory of mukhtalif hadis which is a branch of matn (textual) critic clusters. It mainly focuses on the text or word of hadith. However, this does not mean that another component of hadith, sand or the transmission chain is fully ignored. When two difference hadith are found, for example, and one of them is known to have a very weak chain, then it would not be considered to apply the mukhtalif hadis anymore. Therefore, a requirement to apply the theories and rules of this cluster is valid 4Automatically, when the condition occurs, the weaker one is not used right away. Arif Wahyudi mentioned that the different hadith should be maqbul or eligible as hujjah syar’i. Additionally, he said that differences must be between or among some hadith, not between hadith and the Qur’an or logical thinking. See, Arif Wahyudi, “Kontroversi Hadist-hadist Menangisi Mayit,” Al-Ihkam, Vol. 9, No. 1 (June, 2014), 82.

when both hadith have same strong and good chain of transmission. The status of hadith must be either sahih or hasan.

Etymologically, mukhtalif means those which are different. It derives from ikhtalafa yakhtalifu and serves as isim fa'il or those who do any action. In its root, it means position at the back as the opposite of the position at the front. Meanwhile, hadith could mean saying of someone or the new thing as the opposite of the word ‘old’. However, it is more popular as a term used to describe anything, including saying, action, agreement, psychological or physical character of Prophet Muhammad pbuh.

In principle, as a cluster of ulum al hadith (sciences of hadith), mukhtalif hadis aims to pay very much attention on each hadith right from the text to context to make sure there is no ‘trashed’ to throw away. Difference between hadith does not directly mean that one of them is accepted while another is rejected provided that both of them have the same quality of the chain transmission. Therefore, this cluster is worth very much to learn and practice as the differences among some Islamic sources, not only among hadiths, are unbearable because of the different context of each.

At general, the methods to deal with different hadith (es) are: First is al-jam’u wa al-tawfiq (to gather and to compromise). Second is tarjih (to prioritize one among another). Third is naskh (to eliminate one over another). Fourth is tawaqquf or tasaquth (not to consider both of them). The arrangement of mentioning those four also shows hierarchical scale. Meaning to say, when it is still possible, the first method would be applied as it would accommodate two different hadith(es) so there would be no hadith over another. It makes the perfect compromise of the slightly different hadith.

Meanwhile, the second and the third method need some requirement as it would put one hadith over another so it could not be done randomly right away. Some requirement for the second method are as follow; the lack of the clear text (naskh sharih) relating to the problem, the impossibility to find the compromise point, and the good quality of both hadith either it is mutawatir or sahih.\(^9\) Shalahuddin Al-Adlabi added that in this method, there are some techniques to do including tayyid, takhsis, nasih mansukh, ta’wil, and asbab al wurud.\(^10\) The same condition applies for the fourth method as it would not use both of hadith because of unbreakable differences. The requirement, therefore, is the lack of possibility to apply any method because of the real and big differences between.

5Other requirements, according to Arif Wahyudi, are as follow. First, the differences happen in the same context. Second, the difference is clear, such as when a hadith implies allowance while another shows prohibition. Third, the differences are in the same condition. See Arif Wahyudi, “Kontroversi Hadist-hadist...”, 84.
7Ibnu Mandzur, Lisan Al-Arab vol. IX (Beirut: Dar Shadr, s.a), 82.

Hajj of Prophet Muhammad

Hajj is one of ritual worships that does not originally come from Mohammad era for the first time.\(^11\) Long before his time, in the era of Abraham,\(^12\) hajj had been performed by those who believe in Allah (or hanif religion)\(^13\) although later, some changes inevitably happened. Historical notes from pre-Islamic Arab described that Ka’bah, or the House of God, was full of idols which imply the deviation of faith in significant way. Apart from political side and

\(^11\)Philip K. Hitti mentioned that at very first, hajj or pilgrimage is a rite of worship to the God of the Sun. Once, it was performed at the autumn and believed as a farewell ceremony to the God of the Sun as well as the welcoming party to the God of Rain. In the pre-Islamic era, he added that an annual celebration of North Arabia was performed together with the hajj rite heading to Ka’bah and Arafa in Zul Hijjah. Phillip K. Hitti, History of the Arabs transl. Cecep Lukman Yasin & Dedi Slamet Riyadi, (Jakarta: Serambi, 2006), 168-169.

\(^12\)In relation to hajj, Ali Syar'i ati mentioned Abraham or Ibrahim as the oldest and the most rebellious man of history as he denied all idols on the earth, greatly loved and obeyed Allah, then (along with Ismail, his son) built the Ka’bah whose structure symbolizes Him in the world. Ali Shari’ati, Hajj: The Pilgrimage, (s.l: Free Islamic Literature, 1980), 31 and 44.

other factors, this showed that the Ka’bah itself still played his old role as a worship house.

Therefore, though it needs verification, it makes sense if some sources noted that before and other than hajj wad’ or farewell of hajj, Prophet Muhammad had ever performed the hajj. Considering the fact about deviation or the abuse of Ka’bah and the condition of Mecca before the hijrah, however, if that was true, it could be strongly predicted that the hajj was performed in a different way as what Prophet Muhammad and Moslems performed afterward. The command to perform hajj was later officially revealed to Prophet Muhammad when the condition allowed him to do so and there were no threat of Kafir Quraisy of Mecca anymore. Some said it was on fifth, sixth even ninth year of hijrah.

Other than hajj, at seventh year of hijra, Prophet Muhammad had performed umra to the Mecca before the hajj wada’. It closely relates to the Testament of Hudaibiyah which allowed Moslems to perform the umra that year after the ban in the previous year. Meanwhile, the hajj wada’ was on the tenth year of hijrah. This arose a question considering that Fath Makkah, a moment that signified victory of Islam at the Mecca, occurred two years before, the eighth of hijrah. It is mainly about why Prophet Muhammad postponed the agenda of hajj that long if the condition had allowed him to perform the hajj earlier.

Fath Makkah closely relates to the Hudaibiyah Treaty. History notes that in fact, the visit to Mecca was not well planned, since it was a kind of reaction from Moslem at Madina to the break of Hudaibiyah Treaty. To be short, the story began when the clan of Bakr which

A note from Imam Ja’far Shadiq even mentioned that the hajj after hijrah of Prophet Muhammad was only once but before that, he often performed the hajj (about 20 times) and umrah (about three times) along with his companions. Muhammad Solikhin, Keajaiban Haji dan Umrah; Mengungkap Kedahsyatan Pesona Ka’bah dan Tanah Suci (Jakarta: Erlangga, 2013), 63.

politically engaged to Meccan Quraish attacked the clan of Khuzā‘ah which was the companion of Madinan Moslems. This attack was based on the consideration that Madinan Moslem had been badly defeated in fighting the Roman army before ward so it was assumed there would have had been no power anymore.\(^\text{18}\)

The attack to the Khuzā‘ah happened unbalanced as they were totally not prepared to offend the attack. This led them to run and finally reached the Mecca. According to the Hudaibiyah Treaty, there should not been any fight in haramayn, but this point was disobeyed and gave Rasulullah and Madinan Moslem no other option but to come to Mecca for a fight.

On the way to Mecca with about 10000 armies, Rasulullah got some additional key persons who declared faith and converted to Islam. They were Abbas bin Abdul Muthallib, Abu Sufyan bin Harist and Abdullah bin Abu Umayyah. Among them, Abu Sufyan as the political leader of Mecca had specific mission to do diplomacy in order Rasulullah and his armies not attack Mecca violently. This mission was successful as among the four groups of armies coming to the Mecca from different directions, there was only a group from the East which could not avoid the violent fight. Rasulullah could come to the Mecca peacefully with no blood. He visited the Ka’ba and did seven round tawaf which was later known as the tawaf of victory. Later, at the main door of Ka’ba, he addressed in front of Meccan Quraish and gave them full amnesty. He performed prayer together with Usamah and Bilal before walking around and destroying all the idols, paintings and pictures hang in all areas of The Ka’ba.\(^\text{19}\)

Considering this, Rasulullah had actually got a chance to perform hajj right after the event because of the safe condition at specific and bilateral connection with Mecca at general, yet he ‘waited’ until the tenth year of hijra. It is strongly predicted that reason for Prophet Muhammad to perform the hajj that late covers; First, to accentuate the obligation for hajj once in a lifetime. Second, to imply a sign that the death of Prophet Muhammad was coming. Third, to indicate that the tenth year of hijrah is a good time after the series of battle following Fathu Makkah could be gone through.

Apart from historical dispute about how many times Prophet Muhammad performed the hajj during his life, notes about hajj recorded in both hadith (es) and prophetic history generally come from the event of hajj wada’. It becomes important not only because the event happened when the condition is really safe, but also because it signifies a farewell hajj implying that the due date of Prophet’s last days was approaching.

Hadith(es) on Hajj for Elderly

Hadith on hajj are easily found in special chapters in some compilation hadith books. This chapter usually contains some subchapters which specifically classify the hadith based on more special themes. At general, most of the hadith on hajj describe the situation around the hajj wada’ from the very first step until the end. Other than that, the hadith about hajj show the strong motivation to perform hajj. Hajj, for example, is said as one of five pillars of Islam, considered as honored as doing jihad (war for the sake of Allah), could erase the previous sinful deed and so on.

Slightly, these hadith imply motivation for all Moslem to perform the hajj in any condition, although The Koran itself firmly notes that hajj is compulsory for those who can afford the way (man istathaa ilaihi sabila). However, there found a few hadith which mention special policy for certain persons not to perform the hajj by themselves when any condition occurs. This, for example, happens on 21See, for example, the first subchapter of kitab al hajj, which is bab wajab al hajj wa fadhilhii. Ahmad Ibnu Ali Ibnu Hajar Al-Asqalani, Fathul Bari vol. 3..., 488. See also Imam Bukhari, Shahih Bukhari vol. 1 (Istanbul: Darul Fikr, s.a ), 140.

22Ali Imron, 96-97. Furthermore, it is explained that Moslems are categorized into two in the sense of obligation to perform the hajj. First is those who are obliged, and second is those who are not. The later refers to those who are not eligible because of either early ages or physical (or financial) ability. Ahmad Ibnu Ali Ibnu Hajar Al-Asqalani, Fathul Bari..., 489. Relating to this, a hadith narrated by Tirmidzi mentioned that what makes hajj obliged for anyone is that when h/he has money (zaad) and vehicle (rahilah). Hadith number 813. Imam Tirmidzi, Al-Jami’ Al-Sahih Sunan Tirmidzi vol. 3 (Lebanon: Dar Kutub Al-Ilmiyyah, 2011), 6.
those who have been elderly when the command to perform hajj had been revealed. As an alternative, a member of family or other person in charge would perform the hajj on behalf of them.

Some of them, in not totally same diction and wording, are narrated by Bukhari (number 1513, chapter hajj on the ride), Muslim (number 1334, chapter hajj for the weak) Ibn Majah (number 2906, 2908, 2909, 5390, 5391, 5392), Abu Dawud (number 1809, chapter performing hajj on behalf of others), Tirmidzi (number 2909, chapter on hajj for elderly and the late men) and Nasa’i (2635, 2641, 2642).

The hadith reported a conversation between Prophet Muhammad and a woman in hajj wada’ period. The woman asked Prophet Muhammad whether she could perform the hajj on behalf of her father who, in the time when the revelation of hajj came and the hajj wada’ period, later, was disable to perform the hajj even when riding on the mount. Prophet Muhammad permitted her to do so.

The hadith is as follows:

Hadith number 1513. Ahmad Ibn Ali Ibnu Hajar Al-Asqalani, Fathtul Bari..., 488. Compare to al-Bukhari, Shahih Bukhari vol. 1 (Istanbul: Darul Fikr, s.a ), 140.

Another series of hadith with almost same diction and redaction is as follows:

Hadith number 1809. Abu Dawud, Sunan Abi Dawud, vol. 3 (Istanbul: Darul Fikr, s.a), 388.

References:

It is informed in one of syarh books (Tuhfat Al-Ahwadzi) that the father was actually a newly convert to Islam who was rich, so financially, he could afford to perform the hajj. However, his health problem did not allow him to even do a ride because he would not be stable on it.\textsuperscript{25} Meanwhile, Fathul Bari author mentioned that the main point of this hadith is not about the vehicle or instrument to perform the hajj, but physical and financial ability. Meaning to say, if anyone could not perform the hajj because the lack ability of either physical or financial, this policy applies.\textsuperscript{26}

Another syarh book mentioned that this hadith indicates the permission to perform hajj for a woman on behalf of a man, moreover as a service of a daughter to the parents. Furthermore, she is allowed to perform the hajj without any mahrom if she believes she could be ok. It is also explained that the obligation for hajj still applies for those who can afford the cost materially but physically ill.\textsuperscript{27}

Other versions of this hadith explained other related things, such as the same policy and rule for those who had been passed away yet need to pay the nazr to perform the hajj even umroh. The nazr was considered just like a debt and ahl waris (heir) of the man/woman is responsible to pay it, whether or not the late parents told and gave them wasiyyah (a message spoken before a man passes away). However, some schools required the request from the elderly/or the late to perform the hajj on behalf of themselves, so this initiative could not come from the person in charge only. It is clearly described in the explanation (syarh) of hadith number 927 at Tirmidzi’s hadith compilation.\textsuperscript{28}

Those two cases indicate that doing hajj on behalf of other person is allowed in some specific condition. At general, it implies that elderly who could not bear to perform the hajj even by riding any supported vehicle is one of the privileged groups because anyone else could perform the hajj on behalf of him/her. Another part is the one who had died but had promised (nazr) to perform the hajj. His/her descent is even obliged to perform the hajj on behalf of him/her just like the obligation to pay back the debt he/she borrowed from anyone else.

However, other hadith imply the obligation for elderly or those with physical problems to still perform the hajj by using special policy that Prophet Muhammad mentioned. Some other hadith even suggest those who are not physically ill to facilitate the elderly or the sick by helping them in providing good facilities and chance in performing all series of hajj worship. Those policies refer, but not limited to, some of this condition:

First, Prophet Muhammad gave permission for Saudah to leave Muzdalifah first to avoid the crowd due to her physical condition.\(^29\) The almost same condition happened to Asma binti Abu Bakar (when she stayed in Muzdalifah) who did the same, particularly leaving just after the dawn to Mina. To her slave, she explained that her action had been permitted by Prophet Muhammad.\(^30\) In another moment, Rasulullah ordered Ummu Salamah to do tawaf behind other hajj pilgrims while riding due to her sickness.\(^31\) Not only women, Prophet Muhammad also gave special policy to Ibnu Abbas and some member of his (prophet’s) family to leave first to Mina at the Muzdalifah night.\(^32\)

Second, Prophet Muhammad once did a ride in hajj\(^33\) then \(^{29}\)A hadith narrated by Aisyah shows that in Muzdalifah, one of Prophet Muhammad wives, Saudah, permitted to leave to Mina first considering her physical condition (fat and heavy to carry her body). She planned that by doing so, she would be able to perform the jumrah rites not in any big crowd. Hadith number 812, chapter hajj, subchapter sumnah to prioritize the weak and women before the crowd. Fu’ad Abdul Baqi, Mutiara Hadits Shahih Bukhari-Muslim Al-Lu’lu’ wal Marjan transl. Salim Bahreisy, (Surabaya: Bina Ilmu, 2005), 418-419.

\(^{30}\)Hadith number 813, Fu’ad Abdul Baqi, Mutiara Hadits Shahih..., 419.

\(^{31}\)Hadit number 1633. Ahmad Ibnu Ali Ibnu Hajar Al-Asqalani, Fathul Bari..., 630. Doing tawaf beyond other pilgrims while riding is for the safety of the rider.

\(^{32}\)Hadith number 814, Fu’ad Abdul Baqi, Mutiara Hadits Shahih..., 419.

\(^{33}\)Hadith number 1517, Ahmad Ibnu Ali Ibnu Hajar Al-Asqalani, Fathul Bari..., 491. This was intended to see other pilgrims and welcome them if they have something to stood on it. Particularly in the tawaf rite, on his camel, he gave a mark on his hand then say takbir everytime he performed the rukn. Additionally, he also rode in throwing jumrah although in another moment, he did it by walking. It is also reported that he once put his belonging, including the food, on the camel he rode.

However, those do not mean that riding automatically becomes obligation or requirement for those who perform the hajj. In fact, walking on foot is preferable for those who are able to do so, while riding is the second alternative. It is worth to take a note that there still found a dispute on the preferability between riding and walking on foot. Performing hajj on the ride was also narrated in other places and persons. One of them was about Prophet’s comment to Aisyah bint Abu Bakar who said that she did not perform umrah yet when others had made it. Rasulullah then ordered Abdurrahman, her brother, to accompany her and leave for Umrah from Tan’im. At that time, Aisyah rode the camel then performed the umra.

The permission of Prophet Muhammad to perform hajj in different policies was also claimed by Ibn Umar who was used to prioritize the weak from his family in performing hajj, particularly when they were going to reach Mina. Usually, the family would be located in Masy'aril Haram at the night to do dhikr so they could arrive at Mina early at the dawn to do jumrah. Ibn Umar confirmed that his action was under the permission of Rasulullah.
In short, the second group consists of hadith which imply that in any hard condition, it is still recommended to perform the hajj by selves. Certainly, this applies by utilizing some ‘facilities’ and using strategies, such as riding on any compatible vehicle, avoiding the big crowd, setting the schedule and so on and so forth. Motivation to perform hajj, to sum up, according to the second group of hadith, is still accentuated.

Considering the theories of mukhtalif ahādīts, hadith about elderly pilgrims could be compromised using the first method, which is al jam’u wa al-tawfiq (to gather and to compromise). It relates to the good quality of the hadith which could be seen from the compilation book on which they come from. Furthermore, the difference between or among two is the slight difference instead of the contradiction. To sum, at last, the first hadith are more about pilgrims with really serious health problem, either because of age or any disease. Meanwhile, the second hadith describe non-emergency condition in which pilgrims can still stand to do all series of hajj worship using some facilities and helping tools such as wheelchair, the help of the guide or by relying on some health facilities and other special policies for elderly.

This first method makes it possible to take two hadith all the way around without putting a side one of both. The first hadith apply in certain condition, while another applies in other condition. To avoid any double standard consideration in determining whether a next pilgrim’s condition could be categorized into the first or the two, it would be adequate to pay attention to the health policy and through diagnostic result of medical team, as applied in Indonesian hajj system.

Hajj of Elderly in Indonesia

In Indonesia, the management of hajj belongs to authority of the Ministry of Religious Affair by its special division called Direktorat Jenderal Penyelenggaraan Haji and Umrah or General Directorate for Hajj and Umrah. It operates through some branches in every district which directly serves the next pilgrims since the step of registration process to the departure even arrival time. At the time of registration, the next pilgrims are required to pay a desk posted cost about 25 million IDR. Later, they would pay the rest of the cost in the close time before the departure. Additionally, they also need to show the identification cards along with doctor certificate from local hospital at the registration time.\textsuperscript{41}

Mr. Afandi, the former chair of \textit{hajj} division of Indonesian Ministry of Religious Affair of Pamekasan Branch, mentioned that next pilgrims are supposed to wait about 23 years after the registration time for the departure. However, he added, the waiting period does not apply to all next pilgrims because there found a special policy for elderly so they do not need to wait that long. Three or four years after the registration, the district branch could recommend a number of elderly to depart for \textit{hajj}. Elderly category is based on the age, i.e. 75 years at minimum, instead of health condition.\textsuperscript{42} It was also informed that elderly up to 83 years deserve for the rest of national quota. \textsuperscript{43} This implies that a healthy elderly would be more prioritized to depart first to perform the \textit{hajj} rather than the sick younger next pilgrims. Moreover, there was no maximum age limit for the next pilgrims. It is even found a minimum age for \textit{hajj}, which is 12 years.\textsuperscript{44}

When the recommendation gets approval from the central \textit{hajj} committee, the elderly could depart and perform the \textit{hajj} right away in the closest \textit{hajj} session. This policy makes much sense on why in almost every pilgrimage season, elderly dominated the whole pilgrims in number.\textsuperscript{45} The same policy even also applies for the one who accompany the elderly, such as children and other family members. This applies although in the formal regulation, there is no need for elderly—as well as women—to have a company in performing the hajj.46

However, they would not be permitted to leave or are supposed to delay the departure one year ahead when the health check-up process diagnosed something serious. It is commonly known that the aging closely relates to various types of disease, so the check-up process is also performed more intensive for elderly other than regular pilgrims.47 The same condition applies for pregnant women as the permission to perform the hajj only applies before 14 weeks or after 26 weeks pregnancy. In addition to elderly or pregnant women, in the close time before departure, all the next pilgrims are required to show a letter called istithfa‘ah (means good health condition letter) as one of requirements before paying the rest cost of hajj.48 If there found any serious disease or health problem, it would be considered to postpone the departure one year ahad.

However, Mr. Abd. Halik Yadi, an experienced guide who served as an officer of TPHI (Tim Pemandu Haji Indonesia, Indonesian Hajj Guide Team) at 1998 and 2006 and the chief of pilgrim group or as known as ketua rombongan at 2016, mentioned that if the disease or health problem could still be managed at the close time, then it would be well cared and observed whether the next pilgrim could depart that year.49

Before leaving for hajj, next pilgrims would also experience two times of hajj manasik (procedural education on doing hajj). The first is held by sub district office of The Ministry of Religious Affair and the second is by the district office. Some private KBIH (Kelompok Bimbingan Ibadah Haji; Hajj Guide Team), which is not popular anymore today, often hold the manasik hajj additional program.\(^{50}\) One of the important materials in the manasik is about facilities and policies for elderly pilgrims which, unfortunately, is typically not well mastered by elderly pilgrims so they tend to miss the things they deserve for.\(^{51}\) In fact, Indonesian hajj committee had prepared many facilities and supporting systems to make sure that the health of pilgrims, particularly elderly or those with serious health problems could be well maintained during the hajj. This does not only relate to the previous disease history, but also the hot weather, tiring schedule of hajj performance as well as the big crowd at some main points of hajj rite spots. The special treatment ranges from facilities from hometown to the destination.

At general, there found hajj teams which consist of karu (ketua regu, chair of group, leading 10 pilgrims) and karom (ketua rombongan, chair of flight group, leading for groups). This is actually more than adequate to ensure all the process run well. In addition to it, every flight group (consisting of about 400 pilgrims) is equipped by a health team called TKHI (Tim Kesehatan Haji Indonesia or Health Service Team of Indonesian Hajj) consisting of 3 persons. One of them is a doctor and the two are paramedics.\(^{52}\) The main jobs of TKHI are; checking up the health condition of hajj pilgrims, maintaining the health condition, serving any health complaints, observing the disease suffered and creating a healthy environment for the pilgrims.\(^{53}\)

Meanwhile, specifically, some facilities for elderly pilgrims are as follow. First, the existence of BKHI which stands for Balai Kesehatan Haji Indonesia (Indonesian Health Center of Hajj). It is such a local hospital for Indonesian pilgrims who deal with health problem. This hospital is under the management of KKHI, Kantor Kesehatan Haji Indonesia (Health Office of Indonesian Hajj) and located in three cities; Jeddah, Mecca and Madina. Serving as the first destination for Indonesian patients, this hospital would send patients with serious health problem that it can’t handle and manage with to Arab Saudi hospital.

Second, the role of non-flight group team. This team works during 70 work days to deal with various problems, specifically what can’t be handled by flight group team. The example is the sick who are not recovered until the return date of hajj pilgrims. Therefore, this team is known as the fullest work team as they depart at the earliest period and return home at the latest period. This team works at three airports in Jeddah, Mecca and Madina. They were qualified in speaking ‘ammiyāh Arabic to give maximum help for the pilgrims. Relating to the treatment of elderly or the sick, they serve to record the data and take them to Indonesian hospital of PKHI at the airports. Sometimes, the members of this team like to push the wheelchair of the pilgrims.

Third, some units of wheelchair are available for elderly pilgrims on their way to the plane, the hotel and during the hajj process until they come back home. Pilgrims could bring it by themselves or use public facility provided by Indonesian hajj committee and hotel they stay in. Recently, in hajj season 2018, P3JH, Pertolongan Pertama pada Jamaah Haji or First Aid Team of Hajj Pilgrims, provide some units of wheelchair and stretcher in the area of Mina. Additionally, each airport provides wheelchair facilities, yet some pilgrims prefer to buy the wheelchair at either Mecca or Madina.

because they need wheelchair right after staying at the both cities although before at the departure time, they did not.59

Fourth, a policy of TPIHI (Tim Pemandu Ibadah Haji Indonesia, Indoensian Hajj Guiding Team) for elderly or those with high risk problem not to perform all un-cumpolsary series of worships, such as in Muzdalifah and Mina. In wuqaf series, those who can’t bear to do regular wuqaf at Arafah would perform so called wuqaf safar in an ambulance-look vehicles.60

Fifth, facilities to perform sa’i and thawaf. It comes in special lanes to perform both two so that the elderly pilgrims or those with physical limitation would not be trapped in a very big crowd like regular pilgrims. This policy and facility belong to Arab Saudi hajj committee. They provide special lanes for both sa’i and tawaf which are mainly set and designed for elderly with wheelchair or those who want to avoid the big unbearable crowd of people.61

However, Mr. Halik mentioned that for thawaf, pilgrims usually do not prefer this lane—located at the upper floor—because it takes much more time to go through the lane. They also do not find any chance to approach the black stone (hajar aswad). In fact, this three-floors lane is made to ensure certain pilgrims, elderly, among others, could do tawaf enjoyfully and safely, although it is open for all types of pilgrims.62 As an alternative, those with wheelchair have exclusive schedule to perform tawaf in the evening starting from 21.00 till 03.00.63 Different from the tawaf lane which is open for any pilgrim, lane for sa’i is only for elderly or those with wheelchair and serious health problem. The guide—either family member or person in charge—is also permitted to enter the lane along with the pilgrims.64

Sixth, the facility of local vehicles operating between Masjidil Haram and hotel as the alternative of Salawat Bus which only operates in the range of 2000 meters. The bus operates 24 hours and could reach hotel in sector 7 and 8 at the location of Jarwal which is out of Salawat Bus route and becomes the first vehicle to ride before the Salawat Bus.65

Seventh, the use of special accessories (bracelet) designed for elderly or those with high risk health condition. There are mainly two types of bracelet. The first is bracelet for every pilgrim and the second is for those with high risk health condition and elderly.66 There was once a trial of GPS bracelet use for elderly in the last 2016, yet it did not work continuously due to the big cost.67

Eighth, the room arrangement at the hotel. At the hotel or popularly known as maktab, the elderly are usually set to stay at the first floor, or at maximum at the seventh floor so the health team could be nearby.68 This will make them easier to go upstairs or downstairs although facilities like lift are usually available. The almost same arrangement also applies in a flight group (popular as kloter, stands for kelompok terbang, a flight group) which was set in consideration of some factors and one of which is the age of pilgrims. Other considering factors are cultural background, education level, religious knowledge and the health condition.69

Eighth, the medicine available for pilgrims. The standard medicine is provided, yet it could not cover any specific medicine for certain diseases. Therefore, the pilgrims themselves need to provide it by themselves.70

Ninth, the obligation for every next pilgrims to have meningococcal vaccine before the departure as recommended by Saudi Arabian government. Furthermore, the pneumococcal vaccine is currently recommended for Indonesian pilgrims older than 65 years old.\textsuperscript{71}

Additionally, some non-government organization also offer service for so called badl hajj, which literally means a service for those who can’t physically perform the hajj, either elderly or those with serious health problem.\textsuperscript{72} The customer of badl hajj would pay for someone who performs all the process of hajj on behalf of him/her by mentioning his/her name in the niyyah of hajj. This is usually done by so called muqimin, Indonesians who temporarily live in Mecca and surrounding for work or study and make the badl hajj as secondary occupation.

Conclusion

Hadith(es) on hajj of elderly are generally split into two categories. The former implies suggestion to delegate the hajj to someone else, while the latter urges them to still perform the hajj by themselves. These slighty-look-different hadith(es) find the compromise point using the method of al jam’u wa al-tawfiq (to gather and to compromise) considering of both contexts. The suggestion applies for those with very serious health problem, while the command is for those who still can cope with the health condition while using supportive facilities and policies.

In Indonesia with the majority of hajj pilgrims comes from elderly, special hajj manasik for this group is worth to consider to ensure some existing related policies well understood and properly used. Both policies and facilities are fairly adequate, though some improvement and evaluation are still needed. However, without the segmented hajj manasik held in a small class and intensive learning condition, it would be hard to maintain healthy and independent
